Prawn farms destroying nation's fish nurseries

CALABANG, MINDANAO—Site helped turn many of the world's prawn farmers into millionaires, but Agapao Pinarosa now worries that her life's work might have indirectly accelerated the destruction of fish nurseries.

The Filipino ecologist, whose research on breeding the black tiger prawn became a national trend revolutionized the aquaculture industry, pointed to 66 hectares of brackish water fishponds at the bottom of a steep bluff in this seaside town south of Manila.

Local conservationists have filed a landmark suit against the owner, a wealthy lawyer accused of killing off mangroves—ecosystem that grow on marshy coasts and serve as vital nurseries for the young of species fish species.

PRICES of pan de sal, Crut's favorite breakfast fare—the pan de sal—and other bread products are expected to rise in the middle of this month due to soaring prices of flour in the world market.

Bread prices going up, too

'Pan de sal' to cost 25% more on April 15

By Forest M. Domingo

STARTING APRIL 15, P10 WILL BUY YOU ONLY FOUR small pieces of pan de sal, the breakfast fare of Filipinos, instead of today's five because bakers are raising their prices to reflect soaring flour prices amid low global supply.

Three national groups of bread makers yesterday announced that pan de sal would cost 16 percent to 25 percent more.

"The result of these price adjustments is that the price of pan de sal would go up to P9.50 apiece from P2 for the small size, and P9.50 from P3 for the regular size," said Lucio B. Claveria, vice president of the Philippine Federation of Bakers Association.

A 25-kilogram bag of flour now costs up to P2900, a 71-percent increase from P1660 in June 2007, according to Claveria.

Prices of wheat, from which flour is derived, have jumped 149 percent since April 2007 and 50 percent since last December, according to Nilay Gao, Joey Salceda, an economic adviser to President Macapagal-Arroyo.

A combination of high oil and fuel prices, rising demand for food in wealthier Asia, the use of fertilizers and crops for biofuels, bad weather and speculation on futures markets have all combined to push up prices of rice, wheat and other food items, prompting violent protests in several

Higher NFA rice price opposed

THE NATIONAL FOOD AUTHORITY'S plan to raise the selling price of government-subsidized rice is opposed, according to administration and opposition lawmakers.

"I don't think this is a wise idea when the poor are overeating and the working poor are not being paid just for two kilos of NFA rice," Speaker Prospero Nograles said yesterday.

Sen. Aquilino Pimentel II warned that the Arroyo administration was asking for trouble with its plan to hike the NFA's subsidized prices.

"Raising rice prices now will have a double effect—raise the profits of rice traders and make it difficult for the people to afford it. Hunger knows no

GMA: Abra, Apayao poor to get P500 in food aid

By Vincent Cabrera

and Norman Bandiera
in Manila

PRESIDENT MACAPAGAL-ARROYO yesterday said that the government would give P500 to each of about 10,000 families in Abra and Apayao, the poorest provinces in the Cordillera, to help them cope with rising food prices.

The P500 is on top of the P300 that a family will get for each child, according to the President. The child subsidy, however, will be limited to three children in a family each month.

Ms. Arroyo referred to the food aid as "pangmasa [pangmasa] or short-term funds to ease hunger."

The government move coincides with the World Bank's suggestion that the least developed policy response in dealing with higher prices is for countries to introduce or expand cash transfer programs to the poor.

"Those support the purchasing power of the poor without distorting domestic incentives to produce more food, and without reducing the incomes of poor food sellers," the World Bank said in a policy paper prepared for weekend meetings of world leaders in Washington.

Ms. Arroyo said in Baguio, Abra, that the National Food Authority (NFA) would also distribute to relief food to depressed communities instead of through the public markets, where daily queues overwhelm its stores.

Spicy Korean kimchi now space delicacy

BAIKOBUL, KAZAKHSTAN—WHEN SHE docks at the International Space Station (ISS) on Thursday, South Korea's first astronaut will be bringing a spicy Asian menu that would not earlier space fare in space.

Gimcheon, noodles and South Korea's beloved pickled chili kimchi—all developed by a Korean institute to be healthy—will be among the 12 menu items. A 30-pastry will be eating and drinking during her 12-day mission beginning Saturday.

A CHEERFUL Carlos Garcia arrives at the Sandiganbayan for Thursday's verdict.

Ex-AFP comptroller acquitted again

By Jacques R. Uy

CHALK UP ANOTHER POINT for the former comptroller of the Armed Forces of the Philippines.

For the second time, retired Maj. Gen. Carlos Garcia has escaped conviction on perjury charges filed against him in the Sandiganbayan for supposedly falsifying his statements of assets, liabilities and net worth (SAIN) in 1998.

Garcia's acquittal yesterday by the Sandiganbayan's Second Division was another blow to the prosecution, which, according to the anti-graft court, had failed to present sufficient evidence to sustain his conviction.

On May 22, 2006, the Third Division found no proof that Garcia had hid about his 1998 SAIN and cleared him of perjury.

Garcia, 38, is being held at Camp Crame for plunder, for supposedly amassing P200 million in ill-gotten wealth.

For the promulgation that lasted less than 15 minutes yesterday afternoon, Garcia appeared at the Sandiganbayan

More floods seen due to climate change

BUDAPEST—FLOODING IN TEMPERATE regions and the tropics and droughts in arid regions are likely to increase over the course of the century due to climate change, according to a study released on Wednesday.

The study by the Intergovernmental Panel on Climate Change (IPCC), the body that won last year's Nobel Prize with former US Vice President Al Gore, said changes in fresh water supplies would have a huge impact on humans and on the environment.

"The frequency of heavy precipitation events (or proportion of total rainfall from heavy falls) will very likely in-

RP rights record under scrutiny

UNHRC starts review of members; Ermita in Geneva to make pitch

By Cynthia D. Salinas, Jerome Aboag and Michael Lee Llanos

THE HUMAN RIGHTS RECORD OF THE PHILIPPINES will come under scrutiny today by the United Nations Human Rights Council (UNHRC) in the first-ever Universal Periodic Review (UPR) being held at UN headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

Foreign Affairs Secretary Jesse Manahan expressed the UPR was scheduled under the mandate that the UNHRC, which replaced the UN Commission on Human Rights (UNCHR) on March 15, 2006.

In his remarks, the UNHRC General Assembly announced the council will "undertake a universal periodic review, based on objective and reliable information, of the fulfillment by each state of its human rights obligations and commitments to a manner which ensures universality of coverage and equal treatment with respect to all states."

RP ready
For the Philippines, Assistant Secretary Eduardo Ermita will defend the government's human rights record at the UPR.

Before leaving for Geneva on Wednesday, Ermita said the Philippines government was ready for the review. "We are proud of the advances that we have made in human rights. Like all countries, we cannot say we have a perfect record but we have achieved progress and problems that are making us improve and this is what the international system wants us to do," he said.

Department of Foreign Affairs

secretary general Dr. Benigno S. Aquino III. He says the UPR will allow the Philippine people to see the justice and help put a stop to impunity and human rights violations in the country.

Representative Eusebio Chua, a member of Philippine UPR Watch, said it is a first step to the human rights from Geneva that 30 of their members will participate in a "Thematic UPR," the UPR's version of the review, which will allow the UPR to pick a member outside the council's 48 member states. Another 15 will form a joint session after the Philippine review at the UPR session.

Believe first

Ermita said the conditions of the Philippine government report "will be reviewed in great detail by the committee to make the truth about the situation and other issues clear to the public."

"This is a way to tell the world that we are serious about the human rights situation in the Philippines," he said.

The UPR is the first of the four cycles, the following are the established order: Bahrain, Brunei, Russia, Mexico, Indonesia, Thailand, United Kingdom, India, Israel, Philippines, Argentina, Italy, Netherlands, South Africa, Czech Republic and Argentina.

The United Nations said the UPR was the first nation to have a screening mechanism.

The UPR members will spend three hours debating Belarussian rights record, in particular issues relating to foreign workers, freedom of expression and equality of women.

GMA warned against pardoning AFP rebs

By Lito B. Salaveria and John M. Arcadio

PRESENCE THE NATIONAL ARMY should be careful in deciding whether to pardon the rebel officers involved in the July 2000 coup as it could encourage other soldiers to engage in military adventures knowing they can always seek amnesty after, said Justice Secretary Eduardo Ermita.

"I feel the President will be prudent on this. Otherwise, so misguided choice in the military will be discouraged again. They will be discouraged," he said.

But critics charge that Ermita's indication that the President is considering a grant of amnesty to the military is a sign of weakness, not a sign of strength.

On Tuesday, the rebel officers of the 7th Infantry Division, led by Capt. Gerardo Gensala and Mito Macatangay, were ordered to report to the Malabon Police Office.

President Joseph Estrada ordered the July 2000 military coup to be investigated by the Department of Justice.

Gensala and Macatangay are the two main figures in the 2000 military coup.

Gensala said there were also other members in the military who were involved in the coup.

'Divide and rule'

NO LONGER THAN THE dust of ash of the armed forces of the Philippines has been making overtures to the peace efforts in the south, the military has been divided into two groups, one to support the peace efforts and the other to support the war efforts.

General Arroyo, who is the commander of AFP, has been divided into two groups, one to support the peace efforts and the other to support the war efforts.

THE PHILIPPINE AIR Force will be making repairs on the runway strip of Pag-asa is-land, the country's most fragile claim to the contested Spratly chain.

Cdr. Pedro Kline, commander of the 235th Aviation Engineering Wing, said military engineers are set to begin re-pairs in phases of the 1,200-meter runway. Kline has been charged by the Air Force to lead the work.

Kline said repairs are scheduled to begin in the third quarter, using a P.D. million fund allocated by the Armed Forces in August 2007.

"The southwest area already grows a lot of rice, so we have to build a runway there," Kline said.

The planned repairs will be the most extensive undertaken since the 1970s, when "basic" work and runway widening were done in 2001, he said.

The runway is about 100 meters long and 30 meters wide. It is the only runway on the island.

Conversion of Veterans hit

By Jerome Aboag

A MILITANT GROUP of government employees yesterday said the plan to convert the Veterans Memorial National Hospital (VNMH) to an upscale residential area was part of a bigger design to "redevelop" various public lands of Quezon City where many government offices and hospitals are situated, their move they predicted will be disastrous.

The Confederation for Unity, Integrity and Information of Government Employees (Conuige) said the development under the proposed QC Central Business District (QC2BD) project would result in the relocation of many government offices, overcrowding of old services and the privatisation of public lands and agencies. Conuige president Brunderson Gato said the QC2BD is a wholesale privatisation of public facilities located in the North and East Triangle areas, or about half of the so-called Quadrangle area that straddles the city.

The Quadrangle was envisioned to be the National Government Center where Quezon City was said the capital of the country. Gato said the various agencies and offices of the VNMH, located here, would be half-shut down, based on information they have received, government offices and other agencies located in the North and East Triangle would either be relocated or dismantled.

A project that is being fast-tracked by the World Bank, the QC2BD provides for land to be converted for commercial, residential and industrial use. The residential area is envisioned to occupy 20.7 hectares of the 250-hectare area currently in the development phase.

President Napolion Abaya issued Executive Order 620 on May 8, 2007 to expedite the implementation of the project by creating the QC2BD Commission, a component of the Quezon City government. The general manager of the National Housing Authority and a representative from the Office of the President.

Gato said that several offices in the area would be relocated to the proposed new national government center in the Commissionville, Lina and Pineda areas, that then north of the city. Gato said the planned transfer of these offices has become a source of worry among government employees.

"Accompanying the transfer of these offices is the dismantling of personnel so that an even more millions of public lands are needed for the transfer and setting up of these offices. He believes the government would rather generate this question," he said.

Senators split on inhibition of SC justices

By Gil C. Caceres

SENATORS THURSDAY ARE DIVIDED on the issue of passing a motion to ask Supreme Court Justice Antonio Llanes, Business Committee and President Marcos to inhibit themselves from the Senate case against Commission on Higher Education Chair Benito Vilos.

Senators Francis Daguisan and Danilo Llanes were the first justices to come forward because of their alleged partiality to Vilos.

But Senators Alan Peter Cayetano, Francisco Erasmio and Rodolfo Gozon are wary of assuming a co-judged bench of justices.

The Senate last Tuesday filed a motion asking the SC to review its decision upholding Vilos's right to revoke executive positions and withdraw from answering questions on what President Macapagal-Arroyo ordered him to do after learning of the bribery attempts in connection with the NBN-TV deal.

A motion for inhibition could be filed as early as next week against Vilos, Erasmio and Gozon, Daguisan said.

Daguisan said Vilos said to him of 1998 that if he was not part of the tribunal, the case was being heard, but he reportedly played golf with Vilos and Gozon with a reportedly confidential appointee.

Llanes said the inhibition against Vilos, Vilos and Gozon was valid because "it has been said."

The issue of their colleagues' question the constitutionality of filing such a motion.

While he was not opposed to the motion, Gozon said it was best left to the decision of the Senate's lawyers without any formal resolution.

"It is now up to the bar and get the rest of the justices," he said.

Torched

THE INTERNATIONAL RELAY OF THE OLYMPIC TORCH was meant to be a grand passage through some of the world's great cities, to dramatize the unity that animates the Olympic spirit and to herald the advent of Beijing as the newest capital of the Olympic movement. Instead, it has turned into a public relations nightmare.

In London, protesters almost managed to grab the Olympic torch. In Paris, the torch had to be extinguished and located in a secure bus, to prevent it from being stolen by demonstrators. In San Francisco, a leader of protesters forced the city government to delete the torch from a warehouse and then use a completely different route. What all happens in Buenos Aires, we can only guess.

But that damage has been done. Now to the Olympic movement, however, protesters and public alike have learned to disregard both the Games and the politics of the host country. But to China's image abroad. Coming on the heels of the violent riots or brutal crackdown in Tibet (the choice of emphasis is almost ideological), the torch relay has revealed, yet again, a disturbing rift to China's policies.

The Tibet issue has festered for half a century. China's degree of influence over North Korea, Burma (Myanmar) and Sudan has been a concern and an object of speculation of the constancy of nations for many years. The protests this weekened the torch relay are therefore not a surprise. In fact, they were expected. And they became inevitable after the recent eruption of violence in Tibet.

What is disturbing to the Chinese national government is the fact that the torch relay is being boycotted in many countries. Imagine the general fiasco now enjoyed by ordinary Chinese citizens since the reform began collectively as the "opening," and in spite of the greater autonomy now focused on China because of the Olympics. China's government has responded to the protests in a manner that can only be described as self-defensive.

In China, the broadcast of cable news network CNN is blocked when the news item on the protests that have torched the Olympic torch relay. The front pages of the major newspapers, as illustrated in the case of mainland China Daily, clearly follow the relay but omit or downplay any criticism of the protest activities.

To be sure, public opinion in China—as far as this article thing can be sustained—is solidly supportive of the torch relay and strongly against those who protest. But it has interrupted the progress of the Olympic torch. For the ordinary Chinese citizen, the protest stands as nothing but a deliberate attempt to humiliate the Chinese nation.

What China's government has done is to ride this wave of nationalism, and even to make it. In other words, at the exact time it is poised to end an internationalist movement of a scale and with a membership base could only have dreamt of, China is celebrating a nationalism of the worst, as against the world ideal.

Seven years ago, when it was still bidding for the privilege to host the summer Olympics, China pledged greater openness in the conduct of its affairs. To a considerable extent, that promise has been kept. How unfortunate now, that on the eve of the Olympics, China's national government will fall back to the old ways.

In attempts to demonstrate the United States, to turn the torch relay into a series of protest activities, to make it a particularly vicious example. To borrow the language of the Olympics, this attempt is most unsportsmanlike. The offer of peace, as detailed in newspapers and news pages, is absolutely non-negotiable. And yet the Chinese government persists—as though the rest of the world were a media machine waiting or willing to be manipulated.

Enough of these games. If China is ready to take a leading role in the community of nations, it must learn to be open not only to member forces but also and especially to international opinions. Those protesters lining the streets in some of the world's great cities should not be ignored or their very existence denied; their concerns—the freedom to choose, the right to a life of dignity, the way of peace—are themselves an eternal theme.

Crime rate down in Q1-PNP

CRIME INCIDENTS around the country declined in the first quarter of the year compared to the same period last year, the Philippine National Police (PNP) said yesterday.

PNP spokespersons says, however, the income still appears to be going down in the first three months of the year most down by 6.44 percent compared to that in 2007.

The PNP recorded 1,100 crime incidents during the first quarter against the 1,180 in 2007.

Statistics attributed the decrease to the current program of the PNP in checking on increased police visibility and the "deterrence" of PNP personnel from doing jobs to street patrols.

"The idea is to let the PNP to better police order and down the increased police visibility, decreasing of crime perceived by the public, ensuring upgrades and community support are all paying off," he said.

62 arrested in Quezon City for jueteng

Policemen raid what they thought was safehouse for armed robbers

By Markel Rosales

POLICE ARRESTED BEFORE MIDNIGHT
Wednesday 62 men suspected of being involved in jueteng activities when they accidentally stumbled on the illegal numbers game during a raid in a exclusive subdivision in Quezon City.

Sup. Constante Agapao, Quezon City Police Station five, told 10 chief and they filed a case against the suspects for violating Republic Act 1161, or the Anti-Fraud Gambling Act. He said they conducted the raid on the two-story house at 99 Arceño Street, 7th Heights, Barangay Bagong Kumbong, at around 10:30 p.m. after getting a tip from members of the Informant's Association, who said they had become suspicious of the activities of the men who lived in the house.

He said they initially thought the men were armed robbers.

"We really did not have any idea that it was a jueteng den," he said. Agapao was told by residents that at least 100 persons visited the house everyday. He said, surprised jueteng den groups, known as "Jueteng City," named the house.

"We have information that the house allegedly operates several nightclubs in the city," Agapao said. A speaking QCPD official, who asked not to be identified, said they found and a certain Tigris Francisco with the other inmates.

HAIRLOSS: IS YOURS WORSE AT THE FRONT OR BACK?

Whether your hair is receding, developing a bald patch, or thinning all over, it makes good sense to find out why. Because if the cause is one that can be treated, then it makes very good sense to get the treatments.

Contrary to what others might say, the reasons for hair loss are not necessarily the same for men as they are for women.

Some suffer from very dry and brittle-type hair, others from a constant waves of illness. And sadly, many people ignore obvious symptoms, like an itchy, itchy scalp, very short hairs appearing on the front hairline and hairs left in the comb or shower drain.

If you're worried about your hair, call us. Maybe there's no need to worry at all.

"Phone for a free consultation today. Get a no-cost expert's opinion of your hair. Learn what the right treatments can do. Look forward to stronger, thicker, healthier hair."

Woods begins Masters' quest

HOUSTON, TEXAS—Tiger Woods opened his quest for an unprecedented Grand Slam of golf at Augusta National on Thursday, carrying the home odds over for a place in the history of a major.

The world No. 1 is quoted as saying he has never been to the site before, but he has been there three times and lost the second and third.

Woods has a 13-0 record in the company of 130 Open-champion medal winners at Augusta and Stuart Appleby of Australia, who lost coming the final round last year.

No one is counting the Woods will be in the thick of things when the back nine opens today afternoon. In the last event, he won three times and lost the second and third.

Michelson, who opens with rising Argentine player Andres Ballesteros and in-form Ben Huh, who has been in the lead of the tournament since he won the first round.

WOODS' quest for a Grand Slam is on. The team behind the 2007 Masters fully aware that no victor of that knock-out has gone on to win the Masters four days later.

Player in record 51st stint AUGUSTA, GA. (AP)—Tiger Woods has won the Masters five times.

When Tiger won on Thursday, it will be his 51st Masters. That puts him on the second to last of the King for the record Masters player. Tiger won the first round for the first time since he won the first round for the first time.

Cathedral HEIGHTS

a place for everything

Cathedral Heights Townhomes has a place for everything and everything in its place. Its unique split-level architecture offers an elegant sense of functional excitement unlike anything else.

This townhouse enclave is directly adjacent to St. Luke's Hospital and right near major work, shopping, and entertainment areas.

And best of all, it's ready for you to own right now—complete and waiting for you to move in!

At Cathedral Heights' recent open house, people were able to take a closer look at the luxury and accessibility that the townhomes has to offer. "The split-level architecture is what really caught our attention at first. It's unique and really maximizes the interior space, with everything within easy reach," said Dr. Mylene Cuervo, MD. "We like that it's compact, yet very private and well-ventilated," added her husband Mr. Horacio Cuervo, an apiculturist from Las Balcas.

"What really sets Cathedral Heights apart from other town homes is its split-level styling," explains award-winning architect and Cathedral Heights designer Ruben Payumo. "It's a very private offer with discreet living areas. And yet, it doesn't feel isolated; there's always a sense of openness and space. In fact, each unit's living room opens out directly to a pocket garden."

Philadel Urban Development Corp. has set yet another first as the country's premier real estate developer with the development and completion of Cathedral Heights Townhomes.

"The innovative split-level design of Cathedral Heights offers a luxurious potential for styling, interior and out. It's the perfect place to make a home in just the way you want it or imagine it to be. And it's waiting for you right now."

Olympics to bounce back from torch 'crisis'—Rogge

BEIJING—OLYMPIC CEO Jacques Rogge said on Thursday that the Olympics would rebound from the Beijing Games torch relay "crisis" and urged athletes not to leave China in the movement.

The International Olympic Committee (IOC) president, speaking at the opening session of the IOC's executive board meeting, said athletes around the world were in "disarray" after the disruption of the torch relay in Europe by Tibet activists and others.

"We have to put ourselves and our athletes and our country back on track," Rogge said.

He said the torch relay was "a very important moment" for the Olympics and the athletes and the world.

"We were saddened by what we saw in London and Paris. We were sad for the athletes and the world. We were sad for the athletes and the world. We were sad for the athletes and the world."

Demand for electronics rebounds; US still biggest market

By Michelle V. Rivero

EXPORTS ROSE 10.7 PERCENT to $4.12 billion in February from a year earlier, boosted mainly by strong demand for electronics.

This followed a modest 4.2 percent gain in January and brought total exports for the first two months of the year to $8.15 billion, up 8.2 percent from the same period in 2007, the National Trade Office reported yesterday.

Electronic products, which accounted for 58.6 percent of total exports in February, rose 5.7 percent to $2.45 billion, the NTO said.

Apparel and clothing, the second biggest export sector accounting for 4.3 percent of the total, rose 11.5 percent in February to $177 million.

However, other key export sectors are remarkable growth with in the petroleum products sector, which rose 58.1 percent to $129.76 million.

The United States remained the main market for Philippine exports, receiving $777.14 million worth in February or 17.4 percent of the total.

BIR posts 1.4% jump in 3-month tax collection

By Michelle V. Rivero

THE BUREAU OF INTERNAL REVENUE collected P162 billion in taxes in the first quarter, up 1.4 percent from P161.11 billion in the same period last year.

The BIR said the double-digit growth in tax collection in the first three months resulted partly from the higher monthly rate of 10 percent.

For March alone, preliminary figures showed that the BIR collected P52.4 billion in taxes, 6.9 percent higher than the P50.15 billion collected in the same month last year.

Speaking in reference to the decline of a public hearing on one of the proposed revenue regulations pending in the BIR, Internal Revenue Commissioner Lito Lita said the collection figures for March and the first quarter were based on preliminary data as compared by the tax agency. "The BIR could still increase when tax collection reports by district offices of the BIR come in."

"The national government has not yet fully come up with a quarterly breakdown of the BIR's full-year tax collection target of P640 billion."

But based on preliminary quarterly goals set by the Development Budget Consolidation Committee (DBCC), the BIR's first quarter collection was short by P16.79 billion.

POWER SECTOR ASSETS AND LIABILITIES MANAGEMENT CORP. is seeking bidders for the 3.8 megawatt Amlan hydroelectric plant in Negros Oriental, which was transferred to it from...

The bidding package, which included the bidding process, would be available from April 24-26 before the bidding package could be released...

The deadline for the submission of sealed bids for the plant was set for June 25.

The PSALM board recently approved the privatization schedule for this year, which includes the sale of 14 plants, some of them to be sold to bidders.

The first asset to be placed on the auction block this year is the 222-MW Bataan Thermal Plant in May. The 140.5-MW Yari Hydroelectric plant in Misamis Oriental is also scheduled for auction in June...

The 140.5-MW Yari Hydroelectric power plant, previously handled with the 193.5-MW Palaguan hydroelectric facility, will now be packaged with the 22.8-MW Bataan plant for auction.

The Bataan plant, which has been under construction for several years, is expected to be completed by the end of 2008.

Oil firms to rein in pump prices

Revised April 1986

The industry source said the previous adjustments, five of which took place in March alone, were enough to cover the increase in crude, even in February and March.

Then for April, that's a different story. I don't know if the decrease in April will offset the increase in costs. Grade prices are still going up, despite the recession in the United States. The more the dollar weakens, the more price goes up," he continued.

For this weekend, the source said oil firms would likely factor in the effect of the 1 percentage-point drop in the tariff level for crude and petroleum products and not make any price adjustments.

C2's saga in Vietnam

Successes and failures of RP's tea drink in a former communist state.

By Roger Pao
Contributor

AMONG THE MELANGE of global brands that are already part of the economic boom happening in Vietnam are three very familiar ones to Filipinos: San Miguel Beer, Philippine Airlines and A110.

The first two had for many years established a foothold in the country since divided by war, competing against foreign brands in a market almost identical to the Philippines' 87 million people. The last one is making inroads of attempts to introduce a smooth-tasting taste to Phlegm Dancer.

Another Philippine brand is joining the ranks and is getting with its competition. It's a market used in drinking tea in the Vietnam—Bottled Nubia Corp.'s C2.

C2 invasion

After failed attempts to launch and re-launch a brand already written off as "dead like dead," C2's success story is a marketing tale worth studying.

Success, say, by C2's success story in the Philippines, John Golegong, vice president of LMC, launched a new and modern production line in Vietnam in 2003. Rapidly, the brand's TV material was produced, the sales were before registration.

A second TV commercial was aired but while it was better than the original, it received largely negative, failing to generate brand awareness and induce product trial.

The brand and original C2C issues were already negative and about to ship the production line back to Cebu. But C2C president and CEO Lina Golegong was determined and instead, hired a regional marketing consultant to take over the marketing with the last three years "analysis."

With April, the consultant applied the first and foremost rule in marketing—go back to the consumers. In C2's case, in the Vietnamese consumer, the brand was the brand didn't work; the packaging looked expensive.

He and his team set out to rebrand the product, redesign the packaging and rework the brand ad campaign.

Instead of being the ad agency, results required the staff to rethink themselves with a new advertising to introduce C2. The agency CEO agreed to do it at half the price.

WE MEET THEM here in women who exude style, not only because they manage to put together a distinct look that represents a business investment, but also because, more important, they go beyond aesthetics and lead fulfilling and accomplished lives.

The complexity of their lives involves juggling, negotiating, listening to the boss and the job, while pursuing their interests. They make full use of their late afternoon negotiating life's demands. They have ideas.

ULTRA-CHIC Filipino fashion from L. Masillo

Tan-Gan gives Filipino design new twist

By Apple Kinin-Sadawon

LEILA YAMAGATA, KNOWN AS THE "QUEEN of Kites," has been in the fashion business since 1981, when she established her business line called Tan-Gan. One of the most enduring names in the industry, she is known for her chic, contemporary yet timeless designs.

Never one to rest on her laurels, Tan-Gan is again moving forward and opened with a new label called L. Masillo, an extension of her new iconic Tan-Gan label. Located at the Filipino Zone, Greenbelt 5, L. Masillo aims to offer unique Filipino fashion innovations that are wearable yet high in style, and perfect for the urban/modern-day elite.

The new label offers less spiritual than her wear and instead uses strong, modern colors, that take their cues from the Filipino context, art and history — not just the fashion dress of the country, inspired by traditional Filipino ritual wear and Hispanic context, she says. Innovative items are handcrafted in limited runs, with delicate, indigenous dyes and prints, made from L. Lelo, the label Tan-Gan, which offers pieces in a broad range of thread-like cool cotton for day or upscale dinner evenings. L. Masillo also creates items by some of Manila's sought-after and upcoming designers.

Colleagues by Verdebel Avenue for Tan-Gan men, Pory Quilones, Rigel Orango and Jerry Caputo make for an interesting mix. Quilones, for one, is popular for his ultra-modern, masculine pieces — jackets that morph into pants, or dresses that transform into skirts, for example.

Caputo is known for his strong, innovative pieces that are detail-oriented. Depicting, in his collages and fabric, motifs — an ever sense of the movement she is known for. Among, possibly the most celebrated across the genre designers, it is known for his architectural, traditional and tropical lines, while Orango is known for her elegant and innovative designs that have put the light touch of elegance.

Despite their different design styles, Tan-Gan and her guest designers all work to send the same objective. That is, to introduce global Filipino fashion beyond that of rice, mayonana, field, contemporary and ultra-urban pieces.

The guests came better-dressed

By Alex T. Vergara

THE RECENT METEORIC fashion show was one of those rare moments when guests were as better dressed than most of the models on stage. No kidding.

Thanks to the availability of high-end brands such as Zara, Mango and Topshop, the fashionistas in a budget have no reason to look bored or bored these days. This, plus the fact that new designers are willing to part with their clothes for a song, has made dressing up this way.

Recent fashion shows randomly drew guests at the Peninsula Manila hotel. The organizers would not say, as the guests ranged from guests, multi-legged, to little black and white dresses.

Also, it only the evening's main attraction but the more freedom of choice.

Like so many satisfied clients before her, this lady discovered how Zunic's advanced technology can work where diet and exercise fail, and where painful surgery, pills and injections are not an option.

The award-winning research group at HAMA and the Mayo Clinic recently discovered medical applications that led to the development of new techniques that remove unwanted fat faster and safer, with minimal pain. Zunic uses the latest equipment that combines these techniques, and all treatments are performed by qualified, highly-trained medical staff.

Zunic's unique (Slimming and Body Sculpting Method™) can accelerate skin metabolism and literally melt away layers of fat beneath the skin, shaping and toning your body the way you want it to look.

Results are commonly visible (and measurable) in as little as 45 minutes. Treatments are conducted while you stretch out comfortably on a plush-couch, without the sweating, aching, and pain associated with traditional tanning methods.

That's why Zunic is the preferred choice of busy executives, full-time moms, frequent travelers, athletes, and anyone whose medical credentials prevent them from exercising, undergoing surgery, or taking appetite suppressants.

Visit us today for a free, confidential consultation. We're open 8 am to 8 pm, Monday to Sunday!

The trend is strong in the Asian home-textile market, particularly China where it has 23 shows, according to Fumoto, managing director for Midland Asia, Tokyo and Australia. This is because Japan has "stayed true to its purpose, which is to create the finest quality garments for men."

The third generation has branched out into stable international expansion. Today, the brand is now in fourth generation, with strengthening in retail as well as wholesale points. The group has diversified its clientele with the launch of leather goods and accessories.

"We cannot cut each other out," Sholek said. "We create our own future, make our own parents and all in our own image. All our babies are made in our own self, though we and takes its workers for delivery. Final fitting and adjustments are done in store with an in-house tailor. The service is offered in select outlets only, and mainly by appointment.

Smaller build

Glenn Filigoni's small, yet built, art-in-house label is available if a suit needs to be taken in-line. His suit maker is justifiably a good time for the brand in this as it sells more "in terms of volume," where suit styles are mostly tailored, and have casual, business and lightweight jeans are in vogue.

It's also attracting a younger market with its new technical garments like the 100d jacket and the 501d jacket, which has solar panels on the outside that allow the wearer to recharge his 100d or cell phone battery.

Even the names out of fashion aren't put off in older men's ward, said Rando. "They want to look present and efficient so they go for our latest silhouettes," which include higher, more modern lapels. "The Upper Canal, we have gone the way that has more refined details, like vertical stitching and finish-

Tanya has also come up with so-called high-tech fabrics, like the Microsphere, a woven material that's stain-resistant and doesn't crease, which it uses in its Traveler suit.

"Good fabric is very important to us," Shumko said. "We must be able to hang [your suit] overnight and it regain its shape."

GREAT SUMMER BY THE brightness and levantine odors (and 2007 Colons, after all, always od) a hedonist story, and there's no other reason why they have such resonance than music.

What Green and German believe are the options do just for the beach and beyond. Going green has come to mean many things these days, and What Green—named after the beach town—is not only environmentally but also stylistically current. Just as green in the color of nature and growth, it also brings a lot of Italian one's favorite grasie.

THE NECK IS THE MOST neglected part of the body when it comes to maintenance. Well, what a big mistake! I now know that even if I try to religiously maintain my face to avoid wrinkles, and spend on all the fancy bath to keep my skin supple, my neck will be the last gauge of my age. I think it is one of the major reasons women of a certain age start wearing neckwraps today—to hide something they forget to take care of.

LIFE STYLE

How to keep your neck looking young

If you've like me and have forgotten to give your neck some TLC, it's never too late. Here are easy ways to keep my neck looking young.

1. Spread on some ointment on your neck when going to bed.

2. Moisturize. Use the one you use on your face on your neck.

3. Be gentle. Treat your neck like you embrace baby just. Make sure to apply products in an upward gentle motion to avoid pulling.

4. Choose good products. Consistent with mind are good for the neck area. It is a sensitive lighting, so products that contain retinoids or collagen are also helpful.

5. Exfoliate. With all the products available in the market and at least part of our daily regimen, taking care of our neck should be easy, and most of all, worth it.

The cult of the designer bag

Why women are addicted to it, and why the smart ones see it as investment

By Ingrid Chua Go
Contributor

VORRE (PUT THE REAL NAME) followed a career addition not so long ago. In six months, she accumulated over 30 luxury designer bags. But she carried only two or three of them.

"I just got addicted to the feeling of a bag that a new designer bag purchase gave me. I didn't care if I had to live a hand-to-mouth existence just to afford buying the bag, because it just felt so good to instant myself with such luxury. I didn't realize, or maybe I was too dumb, that those purchases would catch up with my financial life," she said.

Her career continued only when she had to sell most of her yet-owned bags at a loss to pay for her debts.

Pickie it just alone, these women today have been seduced by the superficial message behind owning designer bags—that they are "affluent."

For $10,000, you can walk away with Louis Vuitton's iconic Speedy. That money can perhaps get you only a small pile of savings in PH, paid with some pure discounts, which has more "bang for the buck"—an instantly recognizable bag, or a barely-there pile of savings?

Premium designer bags like the iconic Louis Vuitton Speedy have become "investment" pieces. Bags are now somehow positioned a notch higher purely in the investment (the former women are seeing designer bags as a long-term investment). They see themselves as collectors of their bags, with photographs their drawers the next generation.

Others admit that owning a designer bag or being seen with one makes them feel good and powerful. They walk with more confidence and make get better service from other women to women.

Carrying a Louis Vuitton bag (or for the more jaded, a Chanel 2.55 or a Gucci women's, value of which have an inflated local presence) in the Philippines is also an affirmation that they can indulge it and afford to live a certain lifestyle—even if they have to pay by installment for the bag.

However, however. Buying a bag on credit or installment carries risk. Buyers will be charged interest on top of the premium for something they can't really afford to pay for. The interest is charged to allow buyers to pay $1,000 over 12 months or so.

Such payment scheme, of course, is not uncommon in luxury houses—again, the illusion of "affordable luxury."

Those who got hooked into this "luxury is accessible" status by accumulating the best of Louis Vuitton and Gucci while paying the most and more interest on top of the premium on their financials are already going broke.

There are some merits of smart indulgence to the extent (lengthy) borrowing money just to buy themselves a designer bag or two.

While indulging in designer bags is not an easy backpack for them to no longer and impossible.

That said, when "investing" in a designer bag requires a credit limit, it's important to know when to let the hand and how to get a really good price.

THE LOS ANGELES, CALIFORNIA police chief on Thursday said a proposed new city law aimed at protecting celebrities from aggressive paparazzi would be unenforceable and impossible to enforce.

Chief William Bratton said in a report that coming from the police department and the city would be used to deter aggressive photographers, who "used the back of their hand" to get close to celebrities. Bratton said that the law would be "a waste of money" and that the city should focus on other issues.

The police and the city would be at least a dozen miles away and would not be able to protect celebrities from photographers who "used the back of their hand" to get close to celebrities. Bratton said that the law would be "a waste of money" and that the city should focus on other issues.

Jaywalking, speeding and assault laws may instead be used against unruly photographers.

Obsessed with 'Urduja'

By Ingrid San Diego

THE WAY HE RECOUNTED the making of the animated feature film "Urduja" was an epic saga in itself.

Every feature, head of APT Entertainment, recalled, but he just couldn't look at every year. Or, at least, he didn't plan to. APT is planning to bring a follow-up to the post-grad.

But the idea first hit him earlier, in 2007. A friend had given him a copy of a script on Chinese grounds. Lina and one of the other characters were Urduja.

"Urduja" was about the story of a girl who was born in a village and grew up in a city. The story was about a girl who was born in a village and grew up in a city.

Out of the box

He's always been a fan of Disney Pixar as well, and counts "The Lion King" and "Moana" as all-time favorites.

thing they could use as weapons to fight the invaders.

The film will also be screened at the Festival International de la Cinéma de la Jeunesse in Rome in July.

'Bulidayan Bon'

It's the feature film "Bulidayan Bon" will represent the country in the Festival of Independent Cinema in Barcelona, Spain this month, according to the film's distributor, Roca Films.

It will also compete in a film festival in Italy in October.

The film tells the story of children of overseas Filipino workers who end up in backpacker houses, or parents of gifts and provisions to their families.

According to Roca Films, also the production manager of "Bulidayan Bon," it is produced by Sungho and Cinemas Production, has received invitations to compete in film festivals in California and Colorado in the United States.

'Hin-Ing'

Using Ramon "Hin-Ing," a digital film that chronicles the struggles of a man in his quest to educate his children, will compete in the International Documentary Film Festival, which runs from April 23 to May 2.

The film, which is produced by the Department of Education, received an Award of Excellence in Feature Film from The Association of Film Festivals in California in January. It is produced by Marlon Gutierrez Productions Inc.

Roca said this next project, about a group of people in the country, is currently in the planning phase.

'When Tamaras Meets Delgado'

Roca Delgado's "When Tamaras Meets Delgado" is being screened at the ongoing 21st Singapore International Film Festival.

"Tamaras" tells the story of a group of people who take up training courses with the aim of earning money.

PRODUCER Tony Tarnata says he was surprised he's still in the movie industry because he keeps watching the film, always wanting to improve it.

He was based up in a room in a dormitory building "Code name for the film was Project 108, after the room number," he said.

Later, they moved out the work to animation in Palawan and Manila.

Adding drama to this ongoing saga, Tarnata's head of animation, Monday Knapik, of Devastation, told him with a smile "but she was not there" on top of the project since again.

Tarnata said he could have produced three or even four regular live-action movies with "Urduja" budget.

Throughout the long, arduous process, director single-handedly shot by Tarnata. "I had to be there, that he had become a producer of Urduja, he didn't even want to be killed by the main character. Um, I'm (yelled by Tony Tarnata)," he protested said.

It's just an anime, though. "We will finish it. I'm still in the movie industry."

He said: dependent@appt.com

'What better way to pay homage to the artistry of Filipino animators?'

MY SISTER TELLS NIGEL WHY A GIFT FROM her boyfriend's Christmas list was on his boyfriend's list (p. 31) last year, Nigel is turning one this June. He's so chubby, I find it hard to stay like-minded. Once, I took him to the mall. I put him inside a pet bag, but the security guard noticed. So I had to beg the guard to let us go. This is my first time to have a pet. I think Christine overheard me admitting a little Timi once — as he gifted me one. Nigel looks like a stuffed toy and sure like a baby. He's super-cute, too, and so much precious.

J. PONGE LAURENCE BERLEGGH'S On the Edge of the World: Magellan's Twelfth-Century Circumnavigation of the Globe on the Internet. It's for my research because I'm doing a screenplay on Ferdinand Magellan's "discovery" of the Philippines. The book is full of politics, intrigue and, in fighting, it was a show of conflict. I learned that even the island's natives had their own civil wars. The book explains why Lapu-Lapu succeeded in killing Magellan, whose crew never doubted his belief in God.
